CLASS POEM

The years have carried us forward
To this golden gate of chance;
When we leave these halls of learning
And into the future advance.

We have all the past to guide us
If we wisely apply what it taught,
For nothing dwells in the mind of man
Unless an effect is wrought.

Every minute spent in high school
Is something more or less
To build upon in the future,
To the highest peak of success.

In all there is something driving,
Spurring us on to our goal;
But every single achievement
Is demanding a certain toll.

So we part from our school days hoping
That life in the future for all
Will be the joy, the spirit, and learning
That has been our high school call.

SENIOR CLASS PROPHECY

By Betty Jeanne Doyle

Wouldn't you like to board the new air liner with me and fly to New York for the big party Rose (Elsa Maxwell) Mack, now Mrs. Lewis Darnell, is giving for the 1950 reunion of the June, 1940, class of North High?

Boarding one of the Carroll Bradford planes we find Co-Pilots Homer McCutcheon and Rodney McConnell and with them cute little Mary Blegelid as stewardess.

Patty Ahrold, attorney-at-law; Marceline Carter, dentist; and Jeanne McKinley, doctor, are aboard. And isn't that the famous explorer, Bob Franco, with his little wife, the former Helen Yager? They just returned from the wilds of interior Africa where Bob rescued William Randolph. Bill had been kidnaped five years ago on an expedition sponsored by the R. M. Seibel Scientific Research Company. There's Marcella Page, famous girls' sports reporter on the Des Moines Register. Stopping in Chicago for an hour's rest and change of pilots, let's drop in at the famous Jack Gable's cafe. If you peek into the kitchen you will see Don McMullin, the best chef east of the Pacific coast.

But our hour is nearly up and we must hurry on or we'll miss our plane. Oh, there go Eugene Wright and Harold Maupin with their world-renowned swing band.

On our way again we find that our new pilots are Fred Emerling and Darrell Porter.

At last we land in New York and Taximan George Caudill, who is driving one of the John Dawson Purple Cabs, meets us and drives us to the Copeland (Lawrence, of course) Hotel where Doorman Theydon Brown assists us with our luggage.

Behind the desk stands Manager J. Vernon Bradley, who signals to the three bellhops who won the New York Relays (Jack Ross, Bob Pettit and Anthony Bailey) to carry our baggage up to our rooms. On the way to the rooms we pass the great ballet dancer, Marcia Lewis, and her secretary-companion, Mildred Workman.

After dressing for dinner we make our way down to the main dining room where Dick Evans and his world-famous orchestra are playing. Featured as singers are Harriett (Venus) Bailey and Jimmie Grubb. Columnist Bob Ketman, well known for his famous "Peek-a-Boo Column," hints that Harriett and Jimmie are secretly married.

Oh, look at all the celebrities—James Lusk, the most popular leading man in Jollywood; Dan Wright, famous for his impersonations; Dan Keeney of the Keeney, Keeney, Keeney and Keeney millionaires; Harry (Felix) Johnson of the Johnson and Swanson Spanish dancers; and Basil Karp, who has discovered after years of research the divisionary cells of the electron. Isn't that Patricia Kautz, author of "Of Rats and Bats," with Mr. Karp?

District Attorney Clyde Hartshorn, with his pretty secretary, Beverly Moses, is entering the room now, and there's the D. A.'s best detective, Mike (just call me "Ace") Koufer, with them as usual. I wonder where Marion Young and Walter Robinson are.

Well, we'll be late for the party if we don't hurry; so we must be on our way.

There's Play-boy Tommy Butterfield just ahead of us with Helen Allen, and there's her sister Doris with Bernard Burbank, famous for his new hit tune, "Dear Little Blue Eyes."

Ah, there's Mr. and Mrs. Darnell just as cheerful as ever. They haven't changed at all in ten years, have they? Jo Ann West, Evelyn Mumma and Theone Bassett, all of them world-famous artists, are in the receiving line, too.

Why, Howard Price is playing here tonight. He must have sacrificed a lot of time and money to play for his old friend Rosa.

There's Johnene Bessey, who was crowned the prettiest model in New York at the Artist's and Models' Ball. Kathryn Anderson is wearing one of her knee-length formals. You know she and Joan Reece own the most exclusive women's apparel shop in New York City.

Society editor of the Nu Hork Scribbles, Pauline Pomerantz, seems to be covering this story herself. Could that be Harriette Smuleson, the girl who poses for the Pinkbook covers, here with Henry Darlington, famous brain surgeon?

Barbara Riley and Mildred Leigan, both nurses, seem to have taken leave from You Hope to Live Hospital tonight to attend the party.

Oh, there's Howard Raw, who designed the new North High building back in Des Moines. You know it has every modern convenience possible—soda fountains on all fourteen floors; overstuffed desks with footstools, escalators, and private rooms for the teachers so they won't disturb the pupils. Did you know a whole movie is shown every noon? Neal Balanoff, who majored in How to Skip School Without Being Caught, is now principal of North.

Here comes the President of the United States, Lester Barnes, with Vice President Clark Fifield, and the most important member of his cabinet, Bill Hayes, Secretary of Longer and Better Summer Vacations.

Marilynn Whitmer, Pat Pederson and Ruth Chase, still the triumvirate, are here, too.

Well, well, if that isn't Vivian Carlson, teacher of Latin, with Don Horns.

Um, yum, food is going to be served now; so shall we eat?

The little theatre stage has been the setting, during the past few weeks, for approximately thirty plays, presented by dramatic students before their class groups and a few invited guests. Some of these plays which were most favorably received were "Trifles", by Susan Glaspell, "So Wonderful! (In White)", by Richard Nussbaum, and "Good Vintage", by Dan Totheroh.

Two others were repeated for two assembly audiences each. These were "Three's a Crowd", by Sara and E. C. McCarty, with Don Elefson, Rachel Chader, Myrna Tevebaugh, Bob Healy, and Joe Cortese, and a cutting from "Little Women", by Louisa M. Alcott, with Helen Yager, Hazel Kakos, Rose Campbell, Gretchen Staads, Mary Virys Tenny, Naomi Gilmore, and Margaret Davis.

"If there were four flies on a table and I killed one, how many would be left?" inquired Miss Lucas.

"One," answered Joe Herber—"the dead one."

Bob Ketman: "Mother, there's enough coal in the cellar to last about a week if we don't use any."

Jimmy Grubb: "Are you going to study singing, as you intended?"

Harriett Bailey: "No. I gave up the idea when Miss Rickards convinced me it would take three years of hard work to enable me to sing as well as I thought I sang already."

Deyrl Khile: "Say, Dick, can you let me have a dime for a glass of milk?"

Dick Evans: "I thought milk was only a nickel."

Deyrl: "Yeah, but I have a date."

Lester Barnes persisted in saying, "I have went" despite Miss Calvert's efforts to correct him. Finally, she insisted that he stay after school and write, "I have gone", one hundred times on the blackboard.

When he had finished, the teacher was nowhere to be seen, so little Lester wrote on the blackboard:

"Dear Miss Calvert: I have wrote—I have gone—one hundred times, and I have went home."

Congratulations— ON A JOB WELL DONE!

May we say to every member of the staff—you deserve a lot of credit . . . you've done a real job of producing a splendid issue of the Polar Bear. We hope that our engraving service has made your makeup job a little easier . . . your yearbook a little more outstanding. Quality publications deserve quality engraving—for future issues of the Polar Bear we trust you will use our engraving service.

Journalism students are cordially invited to visit our plant.
